Charles Cullens expects to leave Sunday for points in Kentucky with a view to locating in the jewelry and watch repairing business. If he can secure a suitable location he will probably stop at Winchester, but otherwise he will probably locate at Hazard. He will not move his family or stock of goods until he becomes permanently located. Mr. Cullens is a good and quiet citizen and a capable jeweler. Many of our people will regret to lose him and family as citizens, but will wish them a prosperous home where ever they may locate.

A team belonging to B. D. Lemert became frightened at a train on the T. C. Monday forenoon and ran away. No one was hurt, but Mrs. James Hayes narrowly escaped being struck by the wagon; would have been badly hurt had she not climbed on a fence just before the frightened team reached her. The tongue, reach and one axle was broken and one of the horses badly hurt by having the broken wagon tongue gouge into the ham of the horse.

Road Commissioner Emmett Hamby has recently run the road machine over the pike from Pomona to Dorton. He was much disappointed last year to find the grade so soft that many mud holes were found when he used the grader. This year he finds the grade much more solid than last year and finds the road in better condition generally. He is much encouraged and now begins to feel that good roads can be made, without surfacing with rock, that will be easily passable fully ten months in the year, provided the road machine is used enough to keep the road well crowned. While most persons have doubted that such would ever be the case, some persons have maintained that time for the grade to settle would go far toward making a good road, and that combined with proper crowning would insure a good road nearly all the year.

Mrs. Albert Pickett and three little children were in from Creston yesterday and favored this office with a pleasant call.

J. A. Brewer, son of John Brewer, was in from Creston yesterday. He is a bright and pleasant young man and very readily impresses one with the feeling that he has in him those splendid principles that belong to our best citizens.

J. S. Wyatt was up from Newton Monday. He is conducting a general store and farming on scientific methods. He is one of those successful men whom some people call "lucky," but there is no luck about it, it is only the application of common sense after careful and sensible study of the question in hand.

A. C. and F. K. Davis, of Independence, Va., and Ira Johnson, of Montana, arrived here last week looking for a location to engage in cattle raising. Messrs Davis were much pleased with the level country, but were disappointed that the soil is not richer. Mr. Johnson has sold his property in Montana and has come south for his wife's health. He may locate here or may go farther south. A. J. McGuire and Jonas Snodgrass were showing the men several properties in this vicinity. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson went from here to Ohio to visit with relatives and he expects to return later to make further investigations relative to lands. There were 104 little folks there and such a time as they had will long be remembered by most of them. They played games from two o'clock until four at which time they were served with ice cream and cake. Little Miss Vera is very popular with her young friends, which accounts in some measure for the large number in attendance.

The dog that was lost by Mart Burnett some days ago was found in the woods west of town Sunday and had been shot in the head and one eye is out; the other eye may go out also. The dog is a very valuable one and Mr. Burnett regrets the injury and abuse inflicted on the dog far more than he does the real value represented by the dog. He has the dog at home and is giving him all the care possible in the hope that he will recover. How any person could be so wantonly cruel as to mistreat an animal as that dog was is past us to understand.

Lin Martin arrived home Saturday from a trip to England's Cove, White county. While there he bought a splendid span of mules, which he will use in his extensive farming operations this year.

The problem of lighting the streets of the city has again come up and Mayor J. B. Johnson has a light now up on Main Street near the Southard Lumber Company office. The post is enlarged at the ground end sufficient to admit of storing gasoline and the necessary air pressure arrangement to force the gasoline to the jet. It is what is called the Economy, is made in Kansas City, and costs a little less than $40 a light laid down here. It is guaranteed to give a 1,500 candle power light for 14 hours from one gallon of gasoline. Ben H. West is the agent for the company here and agrees to keep the lights in repair for a given length of time. Five of them properly distributed along Main Street would give ample light for our principal streets and be of much benefit to several of the side streets.

The Art Circle will meet with Mrs. Andy Elmore this week.
